

Understanding OER and Creative Commons

What are OER?

Open Educational Resources (OER) are learning, teaching and research resources available in a variety of formats such as textbooks, courses, journals, multimedia and tools, materials, or techniques used to support access to knowledge.

These resources fall under flexible open licensing and are accessible for anyone to use at no cost.

Open Licensing

OER are made available under open licences, which grant permission to use them within the terms of those licences.

Creative Commons (CC) is the most popular open licensing system.

Creative Commons Licences

Creative Commons (CC) Licences are public copyright licences that enable the free distribution of a copyrighted work.

Six standard CC licences

The four "open" CC Licences (OER)

(BY) By Attribution. Permits all uses of the original work, so long as it is attributed to the original author.

(BY-SA) By Attribution - Share Alike. As above, but any derivative work must also use a similar licence. Hence, "Share Alike".

(BY-NC) By Attribution - Non-Commercial. Licensed works are free to use / share / remix with attribution, but does not permit commercial use of the original work.

(BY-NC-SA) By Attribution - Non-Commercial - Share Alike. Does not permit commercial use of the original work, and any derivatives from it must use a similar licence.

(BY-ND) By Attribution - No Derivatives. Licensed works are free to use / share with attribution, but does not permit derivative works from the original.

(BY-NC-ND) By Attribution - Non-Commercial - No Derivatives. Does not permit any commercial use or derivatives of the original work. Note this is the most restrictive of CC licences and is often regarded as a 'free advertising' licence.

All 6 licences require ATTRIBUTION

NOTE; Commercial use means income-generating use of any kind.

Open Content and the 5 Rs

The term "Open Content" describes any copyrightable work that is licensed in a manner that provides users with free and perpetual permission to engage in the 5 R activities:

The 5R Permissions of OER

Retain

Make and own copies

Reuse

Use in a wide range of ways

Revise

Adapt, modify and improve

Remix

Combine two or more

Redistribute

Share with others

Attribution

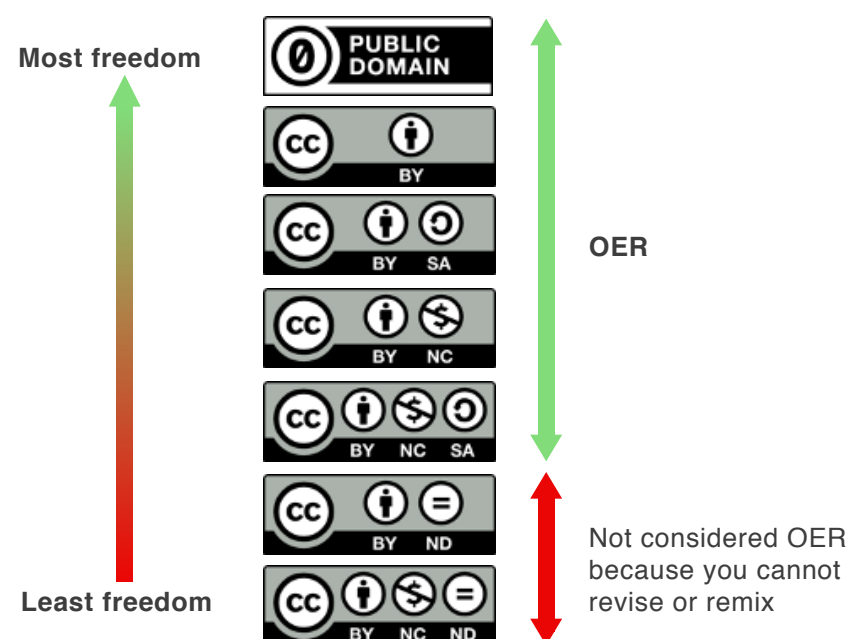

You are required to provide attribution to anyone designated by the licensor.

This condition, represented by the  icon and shortened to "BY", is present in all six Creative Commons licences.

Attribution should include:

1. Title of Work
2. Creator's Name and Other Attribution Parties
3. Source of Work (+ URL)
4. Licence (+URL)
5. Changes to the source work (if any)

Licence freedom

Public Domain (CC0)

Public Domain (CC0) has "No Rights Reserved" and is free of copyright restrictions. Items can be used freely for any purpose by anyone, without giving attribution to the author or creator.
